MWR's Track and Field Meet draws a competitive crowd.

MWR's first Armed Forces Track and Field Meet proved a huge success. GTMO's children and adults turned out to compete in the various events.

An Armed Forces Day Kid's Run, sponsored by Nike, kicked off the event. Twenty-one children competed in the one and two mile runs and recieved a free T-shirt for their participation.

Chiefs Take It In The Face!

In a last-pitch effort to raise additional funds for the CPOA Scholarship fund drive, the Chief Petty Officers of Naval Base put their best faces forward in a brave show of support and good sportsmanship.

Residents were given the chance to vote for their "favorite" chief to take a pie in the face and the top three vote-getters got the pies.

Those three pies were then auctioned off to the persons who had the honor of launching that pie into the chiefs smiling faces. Receiving the pies on behalf of CPOA and the W.T. Sampson Senior Class were; PNC Debbie Gorrell, BMC Robert Pugh and MACS MarcOwins. The event took place Saturday morning at the NEX Atrium while amused onlookers cheered the pies to their final destinations.

FYI: Change in AMC Flights

Continental currently has the contract through October, however they are allowed to sub-contract out to other airlines. Due to a change in their routes they have contracted out the following flights:

13 June through 15 August – Tues/Wed will be Spirit Air; Fri/Sat will be Miami Air

19 August through 12 September – Champion Air

16 September through 30 September – Continental will be back and their contract will be up for renewal in October.

Spirit Air has smaller planes which will have 10 fewer seats per flight. This is a major concern since this shortage of seats will be during a peak travel/PCS time of year.

The CO and XO are currently trying to work out a resolution before a problem arises. Stand by for more information as it becomes available.

Annual Summer Safety Stand-down

Commands are required to conduct safety awareness training prior to the beginning of the travel season. In our case it's winter and summer when most of TEAM GTMO heads to CONUS for vacations and PCS. Safety Stand-downs are held to comply with this requirement. GTMO goes a little further by inviting the entire community not just the employees. We want everyone to be safety minded to ensure fewer injuries.

The 2003 Summer Safety Stand-down is planned for 28 May at the Windjammer Club, from 9am to 3pm. The schools are invited to participate, and all personnel are encouraged to invite their spouses.

Armed Forces Day, from cover

The kids were not the only ones to have all the fun, the adult field events began soon after the kids two-mile event.

The field events ranged from the javelin throw to the discus and the shot put. The track events included 4 x 100 Relay, 100 and 200 meter, one-mile and two-mile and much more.

The 132nd MP Unit (JTF) and Naval Station were great competition for the Naval Hospital, but when it was all over, Naval Hospital came out on top, winning 13 events. The 132nd MP Unit (JTF) came in second winning six events and Naval Station came in third winning five events.

All in all, it was another successful Captain's Cup Event presented by MWR. Another Track and Field Meet is scheduled for September. Watch the Gazette and Roller for details.

Naval Hospital Makes Strides Toward “Family-Centered” Healthcare

Kristen Thompson, born to Mark and Christie Thompson, is the first baby born at U. S. Naval Hospital Guantanamo Bay, Cuba, to receive special gifts upon discharge. Kristen received a personalized “onezie” (donated by the Hospital Spouses Organization), a diaper bag full of supplies and newborn information (courtesy of Enfamil, donated by the American Red Cross), and a certificate for free CPR lessons (donated by American Red Cross).

One of Navy Medicine’s leading initiatives is to support “Family-Centered” health care. Delivering babies here is gradually changing to meet this initiative. Family-Centered health care affects almost every aspect of the childbirth process in a positive manner. Families having babies at U. S. Naval Hospital GTMO will be part of these changes as we make the transition from a sometimes bleak and sterile environment for the mother and newborn to a relaxed and nourishing experience for the entire family. Already, families at U. S. Naval Hospital GTMO have a private room throughout labor and the newborn remains in the room with their family after delivery. The prenatal team encourages all family members to take an active role in the birth process.

The Hospital Spouses Organization and the American Red Cross have teamed up with U. S. Naval Hospital GTMO to help bring this initiative one step closer. By collaborating together, the three organizations have added a personal touch to the births that occur here. Dr. Austin, also adding a personal touch, has developed booklets for new parents to help them understand the many facets of parenting a newborn baby from day one. U. S. Naval Hospital GTMO is extremely thankful to have such wonderful organizations with caring attitudes and generous contributions to assist in making the childbirth experience here in GTMO a memorable one.

Please Note: The Navy does not endorse products given to U. S. Naval Hospital GTMO patients as gifts from outside organizations. Acceptance of the gifts is the sole decision of each patient and is not required.

Mutton Snapper Season Closed

By Paul Schoenfeld
Natural Resources Manager

We are in the closed season for Mutton Snapper (and Lane Snapper). Lane and Mutton Snapper fishing is closed for the month of May. This closure is based on the best available information for GTMO relative to their spawning season. Successful spawning is a key to maintaining sustainable fisheries. By adhering to the fishing regulations, you are contributing towards the long term goals of conservation. So give them a break this month, release those caught by hook and line and if spearfishing, don't shoot them. Report poachers, they are stealing from you.

The Mutton Snapper (Lutjanus analis) is a common snapper found in warmer waters of the Atlantic and throughout the Caribbean. Although there is much variation in color, Muttons usually have olive green backs and upper sides and the fins below the lateral line have a reddish tinge. They have a bright blue line below the eye and somewhat faded blue streaks along the length of their body. There is a small black spot below the dorsal fin and the anal fin is pointed. Muttons are sometimes confused with Lane Snapper and the anal fin is a good way to tell the difference; it is pointed in the Mutton and rounded in the Lane. Muttons are common in the 15 pound range and the Florida record is 27 pounds, 6 ounces.

Muttons are generally considered an inshore species associated with grassbeds, mangroves, and canals although they frequently inhabit open waters. Adults generally live near coral reefs or other hard-bottom features. Smaller adults tend to congregate near hard bottoms, while larger, mature adults tend to associate with reefs in deeper offshore waters. Research has indicated larger snapper inhabit deeper areas than smaller snapper, although there are many exceptions.

Mutton snapper spawn in groups, usually offshore. It is unclear whether or not they actually move offshore for spawning or if spawning is among the larger, older, sexually mature fish already occurring in deeper offshore waters. Adult snapper tend to remain in an area once they become established and tagging studies indicate little movement by adult Mutton snapper after being released.

Creature Feature

"Creature Features" are submitted by The Guantanamo Bay Environmental Office

Mutton snapper are predators who feed both day and night. They feed primarily on crabs which make up most of their diet in the Caribbean, and also on fish, snails, squid, shrimp, and other available prey. Muttons also fall prey to sharks and other large predators including other snappers but fishing mortality, especially shrimp trawlers' by-catch on juveniles, accounts for a large proportion of their total mortality.

COMNAVBASEGTMOINST 1710.10H sets a minimum size limit on Mutton snapper at 15 inches with Muttons counting towards the maximum of 10 snapper, total aggregate of all snapper species, allowed per person per day. Muttons may be taken by spearfishing and the season is closed in May. By adhering to these limits you are contributing to the long-range goals of conservation and maintaining a sustainable fishery. If you see a violation, report it by calling 4105 or VHS Channel 12. Security will respond.
